Nithin places his hand on his tummy and so does Nina.

Nina: I can hear Guddu... Guddu... Guddu...

Nithin: Ha ha! Are you hungry?

Whooossshhh...goes the cooker. Nina turns to the sound. They both walk to the kitchen.

Nithin: I think food is ready.

Nina: How do you know?

Nithin: My nose says so!

Nina: One for me?

Father: What are you both doing in the kitchen?

Nina: We heard the cooker.

Nithin: We saw the jamuns. The jamun is so sweet.

Father: Oh no! No more jamuns before lunch! Off you go!

Note to the teacher: Focus on naming different parts of the body and verbs related to them. Encourage children to practise the words in context.
