

LET US KNOW

JL826R

See how they use and, but and or to connect two words or sentences.

He has a bat and a ball.

He has a bat but not a ball.

Would you like a pen or a pencil?

- We use and to join sentences that are the same.

  He has a bat. He has a ball.

  He has a bat and a ball.

- We use but to join sentences that are opposites.

  He has a bat. He does not have a ball.

  He has a bat but not a ball.

- We use or if we have to choose one out of many.

  Do you want rice? Do you want idly?

  Do your want rice or idly?

Some more examples.

The bird can fly and hop.

He is small but strong.

Do you want rice or idly?

Note to the teacher: Emphasis the correct usage of and, but and or.